If you do not understand any of the following paragraphs, or do not agree to a particular paragraph, or what your intermediary has told you is different from what you have read in this statement, please do not sign the confirmation and do not purchase the insurance policy.

This is the important information to be disclosed by the insurance company as required by the Hong Kong insurance regulator to Mainland customers¹ who purchase life assurance policies in Hong Kong. You must read carefully before you sign. The intermediary has the responsibility to explain the contents to you in detail.

(1) Selling process: The entire selling process of this insurance policy must be carried out within the territory of Hong Kong, and all subscription documentation of the policy must also be signed within the territory of Hong Kong. Any selling activities related to this policy as conducted in the Mainland are not subject to the laws and regulations of Hong Kong. In the event you find out later that the statements or documentation about the sale of this policy are misleading, or the intermediary has made any incorrect or misleading representation or guarantee which induces you to purchase this policy whereby the relevant selling activities are not conducted in Hong Kong (for example, promotion of Hong Kong insurance products to Mainland customers through the briefing about Hong Kong products held on the Mainland, or use of instant communication or social media application programs), the Hong Kong supervisory authorities may not be able to investigate the relevant complaints, and those activities may contravene the laws and regulations of the Mainland. You must retain the relevant documents, including the Hong Kong immigration records and the information obtained at the point of sale to safeguard your interests. In addition, please ensure you can be reached at the correspondence address, email address (if any) and contact phone number directly as supplied in the application form. Otherwise, you may not be able to receive the documents related to the policy issued by the insurance company.

(2) Selling intermediary: The party selling the policy to you directly must be an insurance intermediary registered in Hong Kong. If you are recommended the policy by any other parties, you must note the risks of mis-selling.

(3) Rates of insurance return and dividends: The rates of return and dividends stated in the product information and illustration documents (where applicable) are not guaranteed unless otherwise specified. The actual amount received in future may be lower or higher than expected.

(4) Charges of early surrender of policy/withdrawals: If you terminate or surrender the policy, or withdraw amounts prior to the expiration of the specified period in respect of the policy, you will be subject to charges (where applicable) due to early surrender of policy or withdrawal of amounts from the policy, and the amount you get back may be much lower than the premiums paid or even nil. You may also lose the entitlement to the bonus (where applicable). If you suspend the contribution or reduce the contribution level, the insurance company may continue to impose the relevant policy fees and charges based on the original level of the contribution payable.

(5) Contractual provisions of the policy: The insurance policy is a contract entered into between you and the insurance company, and your rights (including the rights of claim) shall be handled in accordance with the policy provisions. After receiving the policy contract, if you find out the contents of the provisions are different from what your intermediary has told you, please contact the insurance company directly to clarify.

(6) Foreign exchange risks: If the policy (or the investment choices of investment-linked assurance scheme (ILAS) policy, or the assets of those underlying funds) is not settled in Reminbi (for example, settled in Hong Kong dollar, US dollar or other designated currencies of the premium or sum assured), you will be subject to the risks of exchange rate fluctuations or changes in the foreign exchange policies of the relevant currencies.

(7) Risks of changes in laws, regulations and policies: The insurance policy is underwritten in Hong Kong, and if the relevant laws, regulations and policies in the Mainland change in future, it may bring unforeseen risks to you (for instance, change in foreign exchange policies may make you unable to pay the premium and render the policy lapsed).

* for top-ups only

(8) Rebate agreement: The intermediary should not, directly or through a third party, offer any rebates to you as an inducement to purchase this policy, which may be deemed as a breach. The insurance company will not acknowledge any rebate agreement in this regard.

(9) Verification of source of wealth: In accordance with the Hong Kong legal and underwriting requirements of the insurance company, the insurance company has the responsibility and duty to verify the source of wealth in respect of the policy, for example, requesting the applicant to provide the legitimate source of wealth and the legitimate proof of income that matches the premium level, where warranted or at high risk situations. The insurance company will transfer the relevant information to the enforcement authorities in Hong Kong in respect of suspicious cases or at the request of the authorities, without the consent of the policyholder.

(10) Complaints and lawsuits: If you need to process a claim or are dissatisfied with the claim payment and want to lodge a complaint or initiate legal proceedings in future, you may have to come to Hong Kong for the process. The policyholder or beneficiary may also be required to visit the courts at Hong Kong to pursue certain insurance-related appeals, hearings or trials.

(11) Additional declaration related to the conduct of the selling process in Hong Kong: You hereby declare that the advice given by your intermediary in respect of your application for the policy has been given to you whilst you have been in Hong Kong.

No solicitation has been made to you within the territory of the People's Republic of China. You have provided your intermediary with relevant documentation to evidence this.
